Endorsement bolsters Rezolve Ai Initiative with Tether to integrate cryptocurrency into global retail experiences

NEW YORK, Jan. 17, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Rezolve Ai (NASDAQ: RZLV), a leader in AI-driven retail innovation, welcomes the recent announcement by the Trump Administration of its intention to designate cryptocurrency as a national priority. This move underscores the growing recognition of digital assets as a potential transformative force in the global economy and aligns closely with Rezolve Ai's ongoing initiatives to integrate cryptocurrency into mainstream retail experiences.

This development further reinforces Rezolve Ai's groundbreaking initiative with Tether to create a non-custodial crypto wallet embedded within the Rezolve Brain Checkout platform. This initiative aims to empower consumers to use any cryptocurrency to seamlessly make purchases at retailers worldwide, breaking barriers to adoption and democratizing access to digital currencies.

"We commend the administration for elevating cryptocurrency to the national stage," said Daniel M. Wagner, CEO of Rezolve Ai. "We believe this decision validates the direction we have taken with Tether to ensure crypto becomes not only a viable payment option but also an accessible tool for consumers everywhere. By embedding crypto capabilities directly into our Brain Checkout platform, we aim to bridge the gap between digital innovation and practical retail applications."

Rezolve Ai believes that designating cryptocurrency as a national priority will spur innovation, drive regulatory clarity, and accelerate adoption across industries, including retail. The company remains committed to working with key partners to deliver solutions that integrate advanced AI and blockchain technologies, paving the way for a seamless digital payment ecosystem.
