From AI Conversation to Commercial Transaction

Rezolve Ai's Brain Suite is built for this transition. Brain Checkout supports secure, merchant-controlled transactions initiated by consumers or AI agents. These capabilities are powered by brainpowa™, Rezolve Ai's proprietary family of commerce-tuned AI models, engineered to minimize hallucination and maintain data integrity in high-volume enterprise environments.

TraceWare™ and Auditable AI add transparency and accountability across agentic workflows, while Rezolve Ai's distributed database technology provides trusted, real-time data infrastructure for AI agents and enterprise applications. Paired with Tech Mahindra's global delivery platform, the combined proposition is designed to take enterprises from intelligent product discovery and customer engagement through to checkout and auditable agent-led transactions - embedded within existing commerce and customer-engagement environments.

Together, Rezolve Ai and Tech Mahindra intend to help enterprises modernize commerce around an intent-driven model in which AI can understand what a customer wants, identify and evaluate relevant products, guide purchasing decisions and securely complete transactions at global scale.
